WIHD LEADER RETIRES

Barbara Levitz, a leader in services for individuals with developmental disabilities and their families, has retired from The Westchester Institute for Human Development (WIHD).

A resident of Cortlandt Manor, Levitz has worked at WIHD in various capacities for 30 years. She had played a key role in developing WIHD's early intervention service coordination model, employing parents of children with disabilities and providing training across the county on replicating this unique model.
